The Outlook

SPECIALISTS ON WOMEN'S OUTER APPAREL
733 KANSAS AVE., TOPEKA, KAN.

Announces for Thursday, Friday and Saturday
(Teachers' Convention Day) a Special

Demonstration Sale

We have inaugurated this special event to emphasize the fact that this establishment can, and DOES, offer far better values in Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel than any regular shop in town. This is due to our connection with Eastern manufacturers and our many years' experience in this line.

To tell you they are good values does not begin to give you the real news. The mere statement of value falls far short of telling you the facts. We cannot possibly hope to give you, in print, a fair impression of the finished suit, the material, the workmanship, the coat, the skirt, the trimmings. All we can tell you is to come and see for yourself. They should certainly attract every woman who knows and appreciates value.

The items quoted below are characteristic of the exceptional values that always prevail. Latest styles and materials.

NOW A GLASS STORE.

Hall's Stationery Store Installs New Glass and Marble Cases—Furnished by the Southwestern Furniture Co., of Topeka.

During the past few days a wonderful transformation has been made in Hall's big stationery and office supply store at 623 Kansas avenue when the old irregular show cases and tables formerly used for the display of goods were removed and eighteen new plate glass show cases eight feet long with dark Tennessee marble bases were installed and another rear room seventy-five feet by twenty adjoining on the south, has been occupied.

With the placing of the new cases and the rearrangement of the stock every article except the office furniture in the Hall store is placed under glass, away from the dust and dirt and as was stated by Ralph F. Moore, vice president and general manager, "every customer who makes a purchase at Hall's will feel that such articles are not shoddy or liable to be dusty or dirty."

Not only are the smaller articles placed in the show cases, but either wall the thousands of books of every kind are carefully protected and arranged in Globe-Wernicke sectional book cases with glass doors.

Entering Hall's a person is impressed first by the symmetrical arrangement of the cases and the artistic display of the articles in each. The classification of the goods exhibited makes it easy for the purchaser to locate and examine.

Mr. Moore led the way through the store today and explained to a State Journal reporter the scheme of display as executed. The first case next the main entrance on the right displays nothing but new popular fiction, the second and third cases are gift books from English and American publishers, the fourth case contains the popular fifty cent fiction, the next case is devoted to books for boys and girls, number six is full of picture books for the wee little tots, then we have a case where nothing but prayer books and Bibles are displayed.

In the Bible case, the variety of sizes and finish is notable. From the great family Bible with beautiful colored illustrations and compiling the family history down to the most convenient pocket testament or prayer book are to be found.

The last three cases on the north side are used for small commercial and office supplies.

On the left as one enters the door the first case is used exclusively for Waterman's fountain pens. This is said to be the largest Waterman pen stock in Kansas. In the second case, tally and dinner cards are attractively arranged.

GAVE UP FIGHT.

E. G. Neighburger, Santa Fe Shopman, Suicide.

Worried by the Illness of His Wife.

UNDER THE HOUSE.

Had Crawled Into Secluded Place to End Life.

Five Small Children Being Cared for by Relatives.

Unable to bear the burden of an insane wife and five small children, E. G. Neighburger, a Santa Fe shop man 38 years of age, took the shortest route to relief Tuesday, and his body was found in the cellar of his home, 154 Grattan street, this morning. He had taken strychnine.

The body was found by his father-in-law, J. H. Reser, of 243 Green street, Oakland, who searched for Neighburger last night, but overlooked the spot chosen by the suicide.

Neighburger's wife is in St. Francis hospital with a nervous trouble closely bordering on insanity. Her husband and father visited her at the hospital Sunday, and had made arrangements to make another visit together last evening. Neighburger's little boy, 10 years old and the only one of the children living at home with the father, came home from school at noon Tuesday and could not find his parent. He went to his grandfather, who started a search for Neighburger. The relatives and neighbors seem to have suspected suicide from Neighburger's first disappearance, knowing the severe mental strain he was under.

Last night the father-in-law, Reser, made a careful search of the house, and even went into the cellar with a lantern, but the light failed to penetrate to the body. Neighburger had crawled through a hole in the cellar wall into a dark hole under the floor. This morning at 9:30, while still searching, Reser went into the cellar while the sunlight shined through a little window, penetrated the dark hole and lighted up the face of the dead man. Coroner H. H. Keith was called, and his examination indicated that the man had died from strychnine, as the dead man had bitten his lips in the last convulsions, and the muscles were drawn. He said that the man had been dead about 24 hours.

Was a Quiet Man.
Neighburger was a quiet man, who seldom complained, and he had made no threats of suicide. He had been employed in the Santa Fe boiler shops for several years. He was paying for the little home by installments, and seemed to be getting along nicely until a few weeks ago when his wife became ill. She was removed to St. Francis hospital last week. The family was Protestant, but that fact makes no difference to the Sisters of Charity in their care of the afflicted.

When the mother became seriously ill the children were separated and three of them taken by relatives. The eldest, a boy of 10, remained at the house with his father. Last night the boy slept alone in the house, expecting his father to return, while the father lay dead directly under the floor of the bedroom. While the searchers were looking for Neighburger last night, they were careful not to alarm the boy, who slept only a few feet from his father's corpse, and went to school as usual this morning.

Chief Eaton is hedging.

Didn't Quite Mean All He Said About Blonde Women.

A storm of protest, which Police Chief R. W. Eaton contends is not well deserved, has arisen from the lighter haired members of the feminine sex in Topeka, who have proclaimed their scorn at the idea that theirs is a weaker sex than the darker haired women, and that they are not up to the standard set by the brunettes.

Letters have been received by the department head, some of them lampooning him and others bearing significant "Black Hand" and dagger scrawls, all of which tend to show the disfavor with which a statement relative to lesser strength in the blonde women is received.

Chief Eaton has also had women accost him upon the streets and refer to his statement in no mean terms. But all of this he contends is unwarranted because he goes further and says that reference to the blonde does not mean that she is necessarily an inferior of the brunette. In fact she is not, but there is a higher spark of nervous energy in the brunette which marks her character to a degree which the lighter haired woman does not have.

He even says that the light haired woman, psychologically speaking, has not the temptations with which to battle that has the darker haired ones, hence there is not a need for the same degree of strength.

And then besides the department head does not claim on his own responsibility that such a condition is true. Science is really the more responsible. It is evident that to a certain extent his statement has been misconstrued, and a false idea of his opinion reached by those who have disagreed with the letters received by Eaton have attacked him as having made statements unbecoming the police chief of this cultured and beautiful municipality. The extent to which his meaning is not taken in its true light.

NEW REGISTRY FEE IN EFFECT.

Evidently People Are Slow to Understand Two Cent Increase.

Considerable trouble to patrons of the Topeka postoffice has been the result of the recent increase in fee of 10 cents instead of 8 cents which went into effect November 1.

In almost every instance those seeking to register mail had no money to pay the fee, and the postoffice was only sufficient postage on the envelope or package to cover the old fee, and were much surprised when told that 2 cents more was needed. Especially was this true of foreigners for whom careers of these two men who influenced the affairs of that time.

"I have followed their lives," said the speaker, "to show that the conflict which followed was between giants. Mr. Davis enjoyed an advantage at the outbreak of the war. He enjoyed the universal confidence of the people in the confederacy. The fact that he was a trained military man helped.

"Mr. Lincoln did not enjoy the confidence of his section of the country or of congress or even of his cabinet. This want of confidence in the beginning and the fact that he surmounted this difficulty testifies to his remarkable ability and accomplishments. Now Abe Lincoln was not only a statesman but a politician. He was the author of the phrase 'A government of the people, for the people and by the people' and he was the greatest man of the time. The nearer we get to his words the better government we will have.

"The reason I advocate the election of United States senators by the people is because the time might come in the near future when the senators might get too intimate with the monopolies. Of course they never do that now. (Laughter.) We have direct nomination in Oklahoma and it has resulted in some good men being in the offices. I believe that the plan would work well if generally adopted. "I wish that the President had insisted upon the rejection of the Aldrich bill or vetoed the bill. I think that it would have been better for the fame of Taft if he had vetoed the bill. Does anyone believe that Theodore Roosevelt would have signed the bill? No. The man who can face the lions would not have been afraid to face all the Aldriches in the country.

"We want to be patriots first and then partisans. We want to be Americans first and Democrats and Republicans afterwards."

BIG MEN LOST VOTES.

Neither Taft, Roosevelt, Morgan or Carnegie Exercised Right.

New York, Nov. 3.—Many of the country's "leading citizens" failed to exercise their right of suffrage. President William H. Taft did not vote in Cincinnati, because he was in Mississippi. Former President Theodore Roosevelt did not vote at Oyster Bay, because he is in Africa. J. Pierpont Morgan and Andrew Carnegie did not vote because they were in Europe when it was time to register. Cardinal Gibbons did not vote at Baltimore, because he had failed to register. John D. Rockefeller did not vote in New York because he was detained in Cleveland through the illness of his wife. Only two members of President Taft's cabinet voted.

BIG OFFER FOR FIGHT.

Hilliard, Washington Athletic Club, Would Give Purse of $75,000.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 3.—The Hilliard (Wash.) Athletic association, through its president, Jesse E. Jones, yesterday sent a telegram to Sam Berger, manager of James J. Jeffries, offering to post $75,000 if he would hold the Jeffries-Johnson fight here. The association has deposited 10 per cent in the First National bank at Hilliard, which is five miles north of Spokane.

NEWTON TO HAVE PUBLIC PARK.

Newton, Kan., Nov. 3.—A special election was held here to vote on the proposition of the city issuing bonds to the amount of $5,000 to purchase a site for an amusement park. The proposition carried by a large majority. The tract comprises forty acres adjoining the city.

Built 93 Ships in October.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Ninety-three ships, both sail and steamer craft, were built and officially numbered during October, according to a statement issued today by the bureau of navigation of the department of commerce and labor. Of this number, more than one-half were constructed for service on the Atlantic and gulf coasts. Twenty-one were sailing vessels of wood design, and sixty-six were wooden steamers. Only six were steel steamers. The vessels all were small, the total tonnage being only a little over 4,000 gross tons.
